FIM Endurance World Championship

2022 Suzuka 8 Hours - classification

At the end of the 43rd Suzuka 8 Hours race, which is part of the 2022 FIM Endurance World Championship, technical controls have been performed on the machines that classified in the first ten positions.

Some parts have been sent to the FIM Headquarters to be compared with the reference parts of the machines homologated by the FIM.

Until all these parts have been controlled by the FIM, the results of the race remain provisional.

Further information in that respect will be provided in due course.

About the FIM (www.fim-live.com)

The FIM (Fédération Internationale de Motocyclisme) founded in 1904, is the governing body for motorcycle sport and the global advocate for motorcycling. The FIM is an independent association formed by 116 National Federations throughout the world. It is recognised as the sole competent authority in motorcycle sport by the International Olympic Committee (IOC). Among its 50 FIM World Championships the main events are MotoGP, Superbike, Endurance, Motocross, Supercross, Trial, Enduro, Cross-Country Rallies and Speedway. Furthermore, the FIM is also active and involved in the following areas: public affairs, road safety, touring and protection of the environment. The FIM was the first international sports federation to impose an Environmental Code in 1994.
